Glider Pilot Nears End Of Cross-Country Flight

By TONY CESARE
Record Reporter

BOB FISHER of Moses Lake, Washington, who is about 60 miles shy of establishing the first transcontinental glider trip, visited Stroudsburg yesterday on an impromptu stop.

Fisher, 46, hit a snag in the thermal activity over the Poconos and had to land his "Miss Columbia Basin" glider a slight distance northeast of the Glen Brook Country Club about 4 p.m.

"He would have gone all the way to his concentration area (States Island, N.Y.) if he had not developed trouble," said David Hensel, tow-plane pilot for the glider last night.

Hensel of Emunclaw, Wash., reported that a cross-country trip by glider "had never been done before, although it has been attempted by others."

"Fisher goes as far as is possible in flight," Hensel said, probably considering that the feat could have been accomplished without the delay.

Fisher, Hensel and other crew members will take off from Hamlen Airport, East Stroudsburg around noon today — weather permitting. Or they may have to remain until such weather is suitable to soar the 750 pound, 52 ft. 8 inch-wide wing span glider. The fuselage measures 21 feet.

Others in the party are the Fisher family. They are his wife, Wrennie, two sons, Dick, 10 and Dan, 13 and a nephew, Tom Fisher, 17. The nephew drives the station wagon which has a trailer attached so that when such an unforeseen event happens (as per yesterday) the crew can dismantle the glider and haul it to the nearest airport.

This is how the Fishers and Hensel ended up at Hamlen's last night.

The tow plane, loaned from the Civil Air Patrol from the state of Washington, keeps in touch with both the station wagon and the glider by two-way radio.

This arrangement has aided the trip immensely and is affording a smooth operation for the Fisher fleet.

Even by reaching the Poconos, Fisher has already established the longest distance for a glider pilot. He has covered 2,500 miles while flying some 80 to 90 hours. The trip started at Puget Sound, June 30.

Statewide, Fisher took off from Williamsport on Friday and landed in Hazelton the same day. Bad weather with poor visibility held up the advance for the weekend. Finally, as the weather started to clear Tuesday morning, the trek was resumed. Fisher flew about 42 miles from Hazelton to the Poconos. Then he ran into "dead air" and was forced down.

Also Glider Pilot

Hensel, also a soaring-plane pilot, disclosed last night some of the details of the operation.

He said that while in strict contact with a meteorologist in New York, he tows Fisher off the ground and releases the glider about 1,000 to 2,000 feet above the ground. Hensel then swoops within 300 feet of the airport to drop the glider rope. After landing his Piper super-Cub, a small two-place ship, Hensel keeps in contact from the airport ground until the glider is out of range.

In the meantime, the station wagon is enroute eastward while also in radio contact with the glider.

Hensel departs from the airport and heads for the next nearest one to await any developments.

"Skipping along the country the team has been in 81 different airports," Hensel reported.

"We have had wonderful hospitality throughout the trip by the airport operators and even the neighbors," he said.

Hoffa Challenges Meany To Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa Tuesday challenged George Meany, AFL-CIO president, to a debate in Cincinnati Sunday on the relative advantages of the Teamsters vs. the AFL-CIO.

A spokesman for Meany said Meany would have no comment but "naturally Mr. Meany will not accept" Hoffa's invitation.

Hoffa, in a telegram to Meany, said he didn't want any substitutes and that "you are the president of the AFL-CIO and it is your responsibility to attend."

Cincinnati is the scene of a major defection of members from Hoffa's union. Four locals have voted to quit the Teamsters, under the leadership of James T. Luken.

Indicates, the governor said, that lawmakers "have started now to do what they should have done months ago."

Reapportionment occupied most of the meeting with newsmen.

In other developments: Taxes—The governor indicated optimism for a proposed 2 per cent tax on royalties, capital gains, and dividends.

"We're not thinking of any other type of program," said Lawrence.

Lobbyists—The proposed bill requiring registration of lobbyists is "disappointing" in its present form, Lawrence declared.

However, he said he did not know what efforts would be made to put teeth into the measure.

Farewell Speech — The chief executive turned thumbs down on any prospect he would make a farewell address to the legislature.

"I have an abhorrence to farewell addresses," the governor said, smiling. He suggested that anyone who liked farewell remarks should read George Washington's farewell address.

"Re-read that and enjoy it," he said.

The action on reapportionment said.

Legislators End Sales Tax Action

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislative action was completed Tuesday on amendments to the state sales tax to raise an estimated $35 million to balance Gov. Lawrence's proposed 1961-62 budget.

The House approved the measure 115-89 and sent it to the governor for action.

The administration estimated that the additional revenue would bring into balance the governor's $395 million budget for the fiscal period.

The budget would not include an expanded education program, which is still before the legislature along with a $23 million tax plan to finance it.

The sales tax amendments would accelerate returns from merchants on taxes collected in next April and May; eliminate the 2 per cent commission paid to the merchants for collecting the tax, and exempt processing industries from paying the levy.

The fight over the tax changes centered on the merchants' commission feature. Republicans tried unsuccessfully to strike that proposal from the bill.

Majority Leader Stephen Cann warned that the governor would have to reduce aid to schools, universities, hospitals and nursing homes to make appropriations balance revenue, if the commission were retained.

It is estimated that some 217,000 businesses in the state will be affected by the change. The commissions would have amounted to about $6.5 million for the remaining months of the fiscal period.

The vote on the revenue measure came after Republicans attempted two unprecedented moves.

First they sought to split the bill for voting purposes into its component features. The move was defeated 94-109. The second effort was to amend the bill on concurrence — something never done before. That effort was rejected 94-106.

Meningitis Threat Faces 2 Policemen

RICHMOND, Ind. (AP) — Patrolmen John Geiger and Collins Dickerson went about their duties Tuesday, heavily dosed with antibiotics but haunted by the closest possible exposure to spinal meningitis.

The policemen revived a month-old baby, Mark Green, by mouth-to-mouth respiration Sunday after the child had quit breathing. The child died Monday and the cause was diagnosed as spinal meningitis.

The germs' incubation period is five days.

Geiger, 30, father of two children, and Dickerson 29, father of three, took sulpha tablets and went back to work, waiting apprehensively for Friday.

Dickerson's 2-year-old child also is being watched. The youngster drank from Dickerson's cup before the policeman knew he had been exposed.

Overrules Motion

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Judge Russel More overruled a motion to throw out the jury list in the first "Freedom Rider" trial Tuesday in Hinds County Court. He said the defense failed to prove discrimination in selecting jurors.

Mysteries Co-Author Dies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Novelist Billy Miller, 41, coauthor of 33 mysteries with Bob Wade under the name of Wade Miller, died Monday of a heart attack.

Their books included "Jungle Heat" and "Tiger's Wife."

Asks State Amendment On Redistricting Bill

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Lawrence called Tuesday for amendment of the state constitution to force the legislature to reapportion congressional and legislative districts.

He made the statement at his weekly news conference in the wake of another unsuccessful meeting of Republican and Democratic leaders called to attempt an agreement on congressional redistricting.

But, he contended, the meeting "cleared the air" between the rival parties on the controversial issue.

The basic problem remains, Lawrence indicated, that Democrats favor splitting Bucks and Delaware counties to hold Philadelphia's six Democratic-controlled congressional seats, and Republicans oppose the idea.

The governor trotted out an antique reapportionment law — the redistricting of 1862 — to show, he said, that splitting counties to make new congressional districts is an old tactic. That law made part of Philadelphia and all of Bucks County one district.

The action on reapportionment said.

From All-Star Golf

Hospital Fund Gets $6,000 Net

Last week's All Star Golf matches held at Pocono Manor Country Club produced $6,000 in contributions for the Monroe County General Hospital's expansion program.

The results of the televised matches were announced to the public by John C. Crandall, vice president and general manager of Pocono Manor, in a report to Jere Stofflet, president of the hospital board of trustees.

"We were greatly pleased at the large number of people who watched these exciting matches," Crandall commented. "We tried to keep the price of admission at minimum in the hopes of encouraging a large crowd. The result appears to have been of benefit to us and to the hospital."

In addition to the $6,000, the hospital also benefited by the numerous boosts given by the tournament producer Sydney C. Goltz. At least twice in every match, Goltz spoke of the hospital and its expansion program over the loud speaker system and solicited support from the gallery.

According to NBC-TV, producers of All-Star Golf, the gallery at the matches here were the largest in the five-year history of the productions. These are the first shows to be televised in Pennsylvania. Perfect weather and exciting matches aided in attracting the large gallery.

Commenting on the event, Stofflet added: "The board of trustees of the hospital extend their sincere thanks to John Crandall, Pocono Manor, and to the thousands of spectators for their contributions."

"We also appreciate the outstanding cooperation of Peter De-Met productions and especially of director Goltz. We hope they will return to the Poconos next year."

The series of matches filmed here, in color, will be telecast beginning in December.

The State Senate yesterday approved $65,615 in state aid for Monroe County General Hospital.

The bill, covering $17,303,125 for scores of community hospitals passed by a vote of 49 to 1. It now goes to the house for agreement to $44,000 in additional funds added by the Senate.

Blame Part Of Gambling's Growth On Law Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The growth of illegal gambling into a multibillion-dollar-a-year activity was blamed Tuesday partly on corrupt or lenient judges, prosecutors and police and on laws without teeth.

That picture of officials who look the other way when gamblers operate was painted by Senate and New York State crime probes as the Senate Investigations subcommittee opened two weeks of public hearings on organized crime.

Label Russia As Freedom Suppressors

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States accused the Soviet Union Tuesday of cynically suppressing freedom in Eastern Europe while posing as an enemy of colonialism.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson made the charge as the cold war flared in the U.N. General Assembly's special session on Tunisia.

Soviet Delegate Platon D. Morozov denied the accusation and said the United States was trying to besmirch Soviet policy to hide a feeble U.S. position on the French-Tunisian dispute over Bizerte.

Stevenson indicated the United States was cool to a 32-nation Asian-African resolution calling on France to negotiate for the withdrawal of all her forces from Tunisia, including those at the Bizerte air and naval base.

But in a 15-minute speech to the 99-nation assembly, he did not say how the United States would vote on the pending resolution. Morozov immediately challenged him to do so. Informed sources said the United States would abstain unless the proposal was amended.

Favors Plan

Stevenson favored French-Tunisian negotiations. But he told the assembly it should not "attempt to dictate the terms of an agreement" nor take "any steps which might tend to harden positions."

Stevenson said, for instance, some of them ran a linen supply service and warned reluctant customers "We can give you protection." When the potential customer refused, he said, "then began the usual tactics of broken windows and stink bombings."

Saracchan said few gamblers can stay in business without some form of police protection.

A major danger, he said, is that gambling, much of it crooked, provides the money to finance "almost every conceivable organized criminal activity, including white slavery, narcotics, extortion, union racketeering, public corruption, etc."

Mobsters in recent years, he said, have also been using their gambling bankrolls more and more to muscle in on legitimate business ventures.

He said mobsters from throughout the country who attended the crime convention which police raided at Apalachin, N.Y., in 1957 all were found to have infiltrated legitimate business—but in their own fashion.

Saracchan said, for instance, some of them ran a linen supply service and warned reluctant customers "We can give you protection." When the potential customer refused, he said, "then began the usual tactics of broken windows and stink bombings."

Contact Mercury By Radio

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Radio signals have been picked up from hot little Mercury, the closest planet to the sun, astronomers reported Tuesday.

It is the fifth planet with which contact now has been made by radio, and leaves just three with which radio astronomers do not have a speaking acquaintance.

The difficult feat of receiving radio noises from Mercury was described by the International Astronomical Union by Drs. William E. Howard, Alan H. Barrett and Fred T. Haddock of the University of Michigan's Radio Astronomy Observatory.

The radio signals are normal emissions, that is, radio energy created and broadcast from the hot crust of Mercury which is only about the size of the earth's moon.

The tough task was to hear the radio signals against the 3½ million times greater flux of radio noises coming from the nearby sun, Dr. Haddock explained.

Mercury always keeps the same face toward the sun, and temperatures on this sunlit side are probably on the order of 1,000 degrees, the doctor added. The shaded side is so cold that radio telescopes probably couldn't "see" it when Mercury is between the earth and sun.

Various observatories now have tuned in on radio signals from Venus, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn and Mercury. Still to be heard from are Uranus, Neptune and Pluto, but distances are so great and Pluto is so cold that signals may never be received.

Astronomers also have bounced radar signals off Venus, the moon and the sun and picked up the returning signals.

On Big Three Contract

'Inadequate' Says UAW

DETROIT (AP) — The Big Three automakers—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—offered the United Auto Workers Union three-year contracts Tuesday which UAW President Walter P. Reuther a few hours later termed "woefully inadequate."

The companies offered a minimum 21-cent hourly increase in wages over the next three years, plus a wide range of improvements in fringe benefits.

"Their offer does not remotely lay the basis for a settlement of 1961 negotiations," Reuther said, adding, however, that "there are a number of areas in which they did pick up our principles."

Strike Vote

The UAW currently is conducting strike votes in GM, Ford and Chrysler plants over the nation to lend weight to its wide range of demands that call for annual salaries, instead of hourly wages, among other things.

One of Reuther's top aides, UAW Vice President Leonard Woodcock, quickly told newsmen in the wake of Tuesday's three-pronged offer: "In an economic sense it is a worse offer than the 1958 settlement which took place in a recession."

Louis G. Seaton, GM vice president for personnel, said the offer was drafted in answer to union proposals and "will provide security plus progress." Malcolm L. Denise, Ford vice president-labor relations, termed the offer "a good one, a fair one, a respectable one, rather than a substandard one on which we would expect to be enticed upward."

Direct Issue

Woodcock, who heads the UAW's General Motors Department was the first union executive to take direct issue with company proposals.

The proposals include a major new fringe benefit which would supplement wages in short work weeks. For every hour less than 36 worked in any week, an employee still would get half pay.

The industry's average hourly wage now is $2.80 an hour and fringes such as pensions, insurance and supplemental unemployment benefits are worth an estimated 35 to 40 cents hourly in the three-year contracts now expiring.

Will Affect All Soldiers, Diplomats

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany clamped new restrictions on travel to East Berlin Tuesday night for both West Germans and foreigners, including soldiers and diplomats of the Western Allies.

The announcement from the Interior Ministry of the Communist government said members of the diplomatic corps and the Western occupation forces as well as all foreigners should use the Friedrichstrasse entrance "in the interests of more rapid completion of formalities."

The reason for the new restrictions was given as "the numerous provocations which have taken place in recent days on the instigation of West Berlin authorities and especially the mayor of West Berlin (Willy) Brandt against citizens and institutions of the capital of the German Democratic Republic."

Restore Phones

A short time earlier the Communists restored telephone connections between West Germany and East Germany. Western calls to East Berlin were still being blocked. Telephone connections were broken Aug. 14, one day after the East German regime threw up barricades around East Berlin to halt the East German refugee flow to the West.

The new clampdown came after West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer inspected the barricades and recommended that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization strengthen its defenses.

The measures announced by the Communist news agency ADN, were to take effect one minute after midnight.

While foreigners can still enter through one control point without a permit, West Berliners now must obtain a permit before entering the Soviet sector. Previously West Berliners, thousands of whom have relatives in the Eastern sector, were able to enter without permits.

Residents of Western Germany may enter East Berlin with permits, but are restricted to two control points for entrance—Bornholmerstrasse and Heinrich-Heine-Strasse.

Bornholmerstrasse is in the French sector in north Berlin. Heinrich-Heine-Strasse is near the center of Berlin.

Berlin Talks Necessary, Claims Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Tuesday he cannot imagine responsible governments will let the Berlin crisis become greatly sharpened without going into negotiations.

There will be negotiations, Rusk said, as a matter of prudent conduct of governmental business.

Rusk gave this reply to a news conference question about his past statement that there would be negotiations with the Soviets about the mounting German crisis. He explained that he was making a prediction—rather than basing its statement on any actual deal worked out so far for negotiations with Moscow.

Consider Talks

He declined to say just how the negotiations might come about. He said the Western Allies have been considering the question of negotiating ever since Soviet Premier Khrushchev raised his Berlin threat at his June 3-4 meeting with President Kennedy.

Airport On 24-Hour Operation

MT. POCONO — The first phase of a three-step program for development of the Pocono Mountains Airport here has been completed and the field is now on an around-the-clock operation.

The initial part of the program, which cost about $400,000, consisted of building a 4,000-foot concrete runway to replace the 3,300-foot grass runway; another 3,300-foot paved runway; a taxiway to loading and unloading platforms; access road; parking lot; beacon and a $28,000 lighting system.

The second phase will include a terminal building, a combined shop and hangar and auxiliary hangars. The third phase will be expansion of the 4,000-foot runway to 5,400 or 6,000 feet to accommodate larger planes.

Charter Craft

A spokesman for the airport authority said the field is currently being used by charter aircraft from as far away as Detroit, St. Paul and North Carolina.

Recently the field was used by a charter flight from Detroit which brought seven musicians here to play for a convention at a Poconos resort.

Commercial airline service at the local terminal may be several years away, the spokesman said, because even feeder lines, or short haul lines, are contracting for larger planes, which require more landing space than currently provided here.

Workman Injured As Truck Tips

TOBYHANNA — A workman complained of a back injury after an accident at 4:30 p.m. yesterday at the site of the new Army Reserve Armory on the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot.

Michael Turano, 219 Church St., Jessup, an employee of the Shipp Construction Co., Scranton, was treated at the depot dispensary and then taken to the Hahnemann Hospital, Scranton.

A depot spokesman said Turano was unloading fill dirt from his truck when the vehicle tipped over. He managed to scramble from the cab as the load shifted and was not pinned in the overturned vehicle.

'Compromise' Offers Accepted

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — The State Liquor Control Board said yesterday it has accepted two "compromise" offers in lieu of license suspension of Tom X Ranch, East Stroudsburg, RD 1, and Mt. Pocono Beverage Distributors, 611 Belmont Avenue, Mt. Pocono.

Both license suspensions originally were to have become effective as of today — Tom X Ranch for a period of 15 days on a charge of sales to minors and Mt. Pocono Beverage Distributors ten days for sales to a minor.

Tom X Ranch paid a compromise fee of $150 ($10 a day for retail licenses) while Mt. Pocono Beverage Distributors paid a fee of $300 ($30 a day for importing distributor licenses).

Under the compromise plan in use by the board, a licensee may petition the board for payment of a specified fee for each day of ordered suspension in lieu of actual suspension.

When the petition is filed it is approved or disapproved by the board after consideration of such factors as previous citations and the number and degree of seriousness of the offenses.

The East Stroudsburg concern licensee is listed by the board as Costa X. Poulos and the Mt. Pocono concern licensee as John J. Latzanich.

Art Of Seeing

By MARCIA CLAPP

DO YOU have a fountain in your garden? Have you seen this fountain which is in the Philadelphia Museum of Art?

"The Water Nymph and Bittern" was carved in wood by William Rush in 1809. The model who posed for this fountain was a young beauty named Nancy Vanuxem, daughter of a friend. The bird is of the heron family and was found in the marshes near Philadelphia.

This event was immortalized by Thomas Eakin's painting, "William Rush Carving the Allegorical Figure of the Schuylkill," which shows a nude model posing while a chaperone sits knitting. This figure was denounced in its day because "the draperies revealed the human form beneath," according to Eakin.

Since the moral code of the time made it necessary to have "ladies days" at the Academy of Art to view a cast of the Venus de Medici and other examples of ancient Greek art, it is no wonder there was a barrage of criticism when this figure was first placed in Centre Square.

William Rush was born in 1756 and died in 1833. He was not only the first American sculptor but so long as he lived he was the only American artist who seriously and successfully devoted his entire time to sculpture.

He worked exclusively in wood and according to him it was essential that a sculptor visualize the entire figure in the block before it was carved. The actual carving itself was almost a mechanical process. He executed a number of figureheads for boats, the earliest being the "Indian Trader," carved for the ship William Penn around 1780.

Weddings Postponed

LONDON (AP)—When the British aircraft carrier Centaur was diverted to the Mideast during the Kuwait crisis, no fewer than 40 crewmen had to postpone weddings scheduled for August. In announcing that the weddings can be rescheduled from Sept. 2 on—when the ship is now due home—an admiralty spokesman added: "We regret the unavoidable delay."

The 1960-61 annual report shows 25 per cent of available funds allocated to the American Heart Assn. for research education and other services and 15 per cent to the Pennsylvania Heart Assn. for the same purposes.

Scholarships Awarded

In the field of education, the publication, "Modern Concepts of Cardiovascular Diseases," was sent monthly to all county physicians; scholarships were awarded two local doctors for study of respiration-cardiac resuscitation at the National Resuscitation Society; a nurses' seminar was sponsored on open heart surgery; a heart library was presented to Monroe County Public Library; 20 heart kits were given teachers for the junior health class at East Stroudsburg State College; education material was placed in the public schools and 294 booklets and 1,600 pamphlets were distributed throughout the county.

Daily requirements of oral penicillin were furnished at cost to the medically needy in the rheumatic fever prophylaxis program; $200 was contributed to the Monroe County Visiting Nurses Assn.; referrals were made through the heart office to the Bureau of Rehabilitation for cardiac surgery, and films, exhibits and speakers were provided schools, medical society, parent-teacher groups and other organizations without charge.

Letter Carriers Elect Officials

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Arthur H. Warmkessel of Bethlehem Tuesday was re-elected president of the Pennsylvania Association of Letter Carriers at the closing of the group's four-day biennial convention.

The association selected Reading as the site of the 1963 convention and re-elected several other principal officers.

They included James P. Murphy, Erie, vice president; Ekron W. Stover, York, secretary; and John E. Newton, Philadelphia, treasurer.

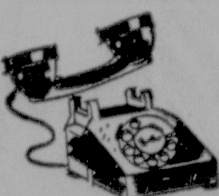

Philip Demmel of Pittsburgh was appointed to the executive board.

Four others were re-elected to the executive board. They are John Talbot, Chester; Edward Schneider, Hazleton; Norbert Quinn, Saint Clair; and John White, Scranton.

Vacation Bureau Will Get Promotion Funds Tuesday

MONROE County is eligible for $40,000, and has applied for that amount, when $200,000 in tourist promotion funds will be sliced next Tuesday. The Department of Commerce has allocated the funds to augment tourist advertising.

According to William Altier, president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau, an industrial development fund was set up years ago and it was through the efforts of local representatives and others in Harrisburg that the $200,000 was allocated.

The money was set aside after the bill passed the House, Senate, and the Governor's desk within the month of July.

Representatives

The Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau is the designated resort organization representing the county, and they applied for the full amount.

On Monday, 34 counties had applied for $352,000. The legislature stipulated that the funds would be divided on a matching basis, but only advertising funds are matchable. The amount of allocation is also decided on the number of rooms available in an area, and this county is eligible for $40,000 because of the resort industry here.

The nomination are subject to Senate confirmation.

Lambert would succeed R. A. Thomas, retired. Col would succeed the late J. C. Smith.

Also nominated were the following from Pennsylvania: Frank J. Dougherty, Bala Cynwyd; Jay C. Miller, Manheim; George M. Brunner, Cranestown; Leonard W. Gray, Dayton; Harold Dickson, Dingman's Ferry; Robert A. Feinor, New Tripoli; Robert H. Becker, Rheems; Elwood T. Conrad, Sassamansville; and Jose S. Klappach, Strabane.

Bids Opening For LaAnna Dam Sept. 11

NEWFOUNDLAND — Bids will be opened Sept. 11 for a $500,000 dam to be erected on Taylor's Creek, a half-mile south of LaAnna.

It is part of a 16-structure project on the Greene-Dreher Watershed, a 48,000-acre area including LaAnna, South Sterling, Greentown, Promised Land, and Newfoundland.

The County Commissioners of Wayne, Pike, and Monroe Counties are sponsoring the project, along with the Soil Conservation Districts of the counties.

The work plan includes 16 flood retarding structures — dams — which will preclude any flooding of the 1955 type.

In Wayne Co. one structure was started last fall and is nearing completion on Manny Run. On Green Creek in Wayne Co. is another partially finished structure.

The Pike Co. dam on Taylor's Creek is the largest of the project, and is the biggest structure of its kind that the State Soil Conservation Service has ever planned.

75 Feet High

The dam will be 75 feet high, and the normal backwater will cover eight acres. When it reaches flood stage, the backwater will cover 57 acres before spillage begins over the spillways.

The County Commissioners of each county are responsible for obtaining easements and rights of way, and so far these have been donated by landowners.

The total job will cost $2,500,000, of which the federal government will contribute $2,450,000.

During the 1955 flood damage was estimated to the watershed area at $1,500,000, and 11 died. According to estimates based on floodage over the years, erection of the series of dams will save $1.70 worth of property from damage for every dollar spent.

The reduction of flood damage figures are (reduction is the percentage of property that will be saved from damage out of total possible damageable property) South Sterling, 98.5 percent; Newfoundland, 90.5 percent; and Greentown, 76.2 percent.

Fire Destroys Living Room In Barrett

MOUNTAINHOME—Fire apparently the result of careless smoking destroyed the living room of a one-story frame cottage owned by J. Tyler Jackson, operator of Al-Jere Cottages, on Pleasant Ridge near here at 3:10 a.m. yesterday.

Damage, estimated at more than $3,000, was covered by insurance. George Huguennin, Barrett Township fire chief, said the fire started in a smoldering overstuffed chair in the living room and apparently was the result of smoking.

The blaze was discovered by Lynn Carey, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hastings Carey of Hockessin, Del., who occupied the cottage since Saturday.

Awakened By Smoke

Lynn was awakened by the smell of smoke and woke her parents. All three and another daughter, Lee, two and one-half, escaped through a bedroom window by knocking out the screen.

When the five trucks and 35 men of the Barrett Fire Dept. arrived, other cottagers had the flames under control. They used a garden hose to extinguish the fire.

Firemen finished the job of extinguishing the fire and inspected the crawl space over the living quarters, to which the flames spread, to insure that they were out.

It should have come as no surprise to anyone that the U. S. Bureau of the Census recently found there is a single large metropolitan area stretching along the Atlantic Coast from New England to a point south of Washington, D. C.

Monroe County residents have been aware for some time that more and more Summer residences and cottages are being built in the area; that more and more persons spend each Summer in or near the Poconos.

This area is in a unique position to benefit from the expansion of this metropolitan area along the Atlantic. New high-speed highways, such as the Key-Stone Shortway, will continue to funnel large numbers of visitors here. More and more will decide to establish residences here, at least on a seasonal basis.

For these reasons, if no others, this newspaper's long-standing appeal to local and county governments to get started on a system of planning and zoning for the county deserves to be repeated.

We have a good thing here in the Poconos. It can be better. But if, because of lack of action by our duly-elected governments, a rash of fly-by-night housing projects and a group of unsavory businesses should invade the area, much of its appeal to city dwellers would go out the window.

It can happen here. It has happened to other areas. Now—while there is still time—is when something should be done about it. Let's get started.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Badly Timed Applause

Apparently unwilling to attack the Peace Corps directly, conservative Republicans and southern Democrats have resorted to an old tactic: making their target "controversial." They are now circulating reprints on Capitol Hill of newspaper articles containing vague charges against a Peace Corps trainee.

The trainee, Charles Kamen, aged 21, attended a meeting last December of the Miami Rotary Club where the House Un-American Activities Committee's epic film "Operation Abolition" was shown. Mr. Kamen, according to Rotary spokesmen, was ejected from the meeting because he laughed and applauded "at the wrong times." After Mr. Kamen was picked for Peace Corps training this spring, Rotary Club members complained in the press, and soon Congressional critics were demanding that Mr. Kamen be discharged at once.

To his credit, Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director, has politely refused. So far, Mr. Kamen has scored well on entrance tests and has high character recommendations from reputable persons. He has yet to run the Peace Corps' intensive screening gauntlet, which includes an F. B. I. security check.

Noting these procedures, far tougher than those imposed on military trainees (or Congressmen), Mr. Shriver said that it would be unwise for him to intervene in the corps' selection process. We agree. Whether or not Mr. Kamen is fit for Peace Corps service should be left to a fact-finding procedure, not to whims of the Miami Rotary Club. Moreover, the Peace Corps' opponents in Congress might do well to limit their attacks to relevant issues.

'K' Likes Horsemeat

Politicians all over the world have to find ways of making themselves personally popular. Even a dictator has to be popular. When the support of the people fails them, dictators collapse as Mussolini and Hitler did. In such a country as ours, the politician kisses babies, eats knishes and hot dogs or pizza pie; Khrushchev announces that he loves horse meat.

Khrushchev's speech on this subject was: "Let I be blamed by horse breeders, I repeat what has already been said at the conferences held in Kazakhstan, the horse-breeding as a branch of meat production must receive all-round development. For it is very tasty meat. I have already become a Kazakh, as it were. It is very tasty meat, horsemeat, very tasty. Yesterday I was a guest of the Kazakhs and it was so tasty that — it is very fat and therefore, maybe it is my age and my constitution — that is, so to speak, er, you know, people (go for?) fat. Fat consists of nourishing and high-calorie products and therefore — it is also cheap. Therefore, it must be developed."

Presumably when Khrushchev takes over the world, we shall all eat horse meat for he further said: "Now there are many people here who have become used to this meat. And those who have not become used to it; well, it, you know, a matter of habit. First of all you cautiously try to eat it. Then you get the taste for it and you just grab it by the ears. Anyway, it is voluntary. If you don't want to, don't eat it. But those who like this meat should eat it. But I repeat again, it must be developed."

Well, that is how to be popular with the Kazakhs, a Tartar race who breed horses. One year, Khrushchev was doing the same thing in the Middle West where he praised corn and pleased the farmers with his compliments. He was so excited about Farmer Garst's corn that he went back to Russia talking so much about corn that one feared that he would plant the whole country in corn. The Russians do not like hominy grits; they prefer kasha which is buckwheat.

This sounds trivial in the face of the great issues that face mankind but it just goes to show how universal politicians' techniques are. Khrushchev will eat a horse-meat sandwich to prove that he loves a Kazakh, just as Governor Rockefeller, when he was running for office, went down into the slums to eat an indigestible knish to prove that he is in his belly at least, democratic. The politician always prefers to do a stunt rather than to discuss an issue. After all, if you or I ate a knish on the sidewalk, using our fingers to hold the greasy stuff, we should be told by our wives that we had lost our manners and good sense. But when a Rockefeller does it, it is proof of democracy. And democracy is what we want in candidates. We want no stuffed shirts even if they have superior brains.

So the Mayor of New York walks hither and yon in the slums which he has just discovered, although he is a native, either to prove that he can walk or that he loves slums. In a word, he is just as good as anybody else who has to walk these dirty streets. But why are the streets dirty? Why doesn't someone who lives in the slums ask that question? Why does he not say: "Mr. Mayor, those dirty streets could be as clean as Fifth Avenue if you cleaned them up. Walking along these filthy streets does not prove that you are democratic at heart; it only proves that your Sanitation Department does not keep our streets clean." But nobody asks questions.

Logic is an awful attack on politicians who fear the truth and reason, lest they would have to explain some of the very curious things they do. As the trait of confusing deceit is universal, we know that the politicians' pattern must have a reason for existence. What is it? It is that the people enjoy being kidded by men whom they made big. It amuses the populace. It is good entertainment. It leads to enthusiasm and votes. Jimmy Walker was a genius at making the voter feel good. But did he do anything else?

The gap between speech and accomplishment is very wide, but the politician knows that speech and stunts can help him hold his place.

The Pennsylvania Story

2-Year 'Watchdog' In Capitol Still Pup

Harrisburg—Two years ago this month they blew the flutes and lutes on Capitol Hill — and a "watchdog" of sorts was officially born.

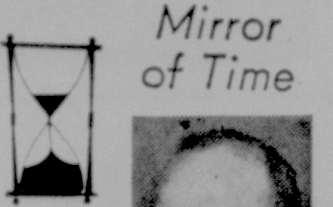

Two years later the "watchdog" is still a pup — perhaps just now coming to the stature where it can emit something of a pseudo-bark rather than the squeak to which now confined.

The pup in question has a fanciful name — the "Legislative Budget and Finance Committee," or more familiarly, the Legislature's "watchdog committee."

There hasn't been any staff to speak of — and the committee since 1959 has just been "in being" and that's all. The other day however several top drawer staff overlord finally were named and the real start of a watchdog committee operation belatedly has been made.

Idea behind creation of the legislative pooch initially envisioned some sort of agency, representative of the legislative branch, that could keep watch and in effect monitor, the executive branch on the expenditure front when the Legislature was not in session.

During the 1957 session of the Legislature this column urged creation of such a unit. Legislation was duly introduced during that session authorizing a "watchdog" committee but it failed to gain enactment. In the 1959 session this column again suggested creation of such a committee.

Mirror of Time

—by J. D. Shafer

10 Years Ago

A Texan man was very much displeased when he struck oil in his backyard. He had been drilling for water.

East Stroudsburg Playground officials announced the pool would close Saturday for the 1951 season.

Robin Roberts pitched his sixth shutout of the 1951 season.

20 Years Ago

Miss Madelyn Hanna, former social editor of The Daily Record and her mother ran into the pond in front of Pocono Township High School after she lost control of the car as she pulled from a parking space there. Neither were injured.

Monroe County school districts received a total of $16,872.55 from the state.

How many remember when George Quick, Tobyhanna, was injured when he struck an Army truck with his motorcycle in 1921?

Hurler Bob Feller won his 21st game of the year, pitching a shutout over the New York Yankees.

On August 4, 1959 Governor Lawrence signed into law legislation creating the long-needed legislative watchdog committee.

Importance of having such a committee most certainly cannot be overstressed. It has long been the procedure with Congress in Washington — and its need is ever present today in Pennsylvania.

Pennsylvania's taxpayers would do well to look at their fiscal facts of life and perhaps better understand the need for such a watchdog agency.

Pennsylvania with all its various and sundry "fund" budgets — General Fund, Motor License Fund, etc. — is operating on a $3 billion-plus overall budget. This, most certainly, can no longer be considered in the realm of "peanuts."

Who spends the $3 billion-plus Pennsylvania's taxpayers pour into state coffers? The executive branch.

Who checks on the executive branch when the Legislature is out of session? No one. Under the watchdog committee setup however, there is supposed to be constant checking — with the checking done by the representative agency of the legislative branch which under the State Constitution is responsible in the first place!

The committee can be powerful. It should be. It has the authority to make examinations and reports concerning all state funds and appropriations — to make sure they are spent as directed by the Legislature.

Importantly — the committee is given the power to issue subpoenas to compel the attendance of witnesses and the production of any papers of a fiscal nature.

When the Legislature is in session the committee reports directly to that agency. When not in session the committee reports to the Governor and the State Auditor General (elected) when it appears that any appropriation is being expended for any purpose other than that intended by the Legislature.

Who makes up the committee? Every one of the 12 members is a member of the Legislature — The President Pro Tempore of the Senate, the Speaker of the House of Representatives, plus five members of the Senate and five members of the House!

Seemingly, Pennsylvania's Legislature is at last beginning to come of age.

About Town

Guarded dismissal: An American manufacturer was taking an Iron Curtain production chief on a tour of his plant. Suddenly, the noon whistle blew and thousands of men streamed out of the plant for lunch.

The visitor was aghast. "They're all escaping!" he cried.

"Just wait, they'll be back," his host said dryly.

The whistle blew again at one o'clock and all the men returned to work. The visitor was noticeably impressed.

Off The Record

By Bob Clark

"Cruising down the river on a —"

That's what 13 youths and six supervisors of Stroudsburg Playground did recently when they canoed from Port Jervis, N.Y., to Hialeah, near Bushkill.

The trip, an experience the boys will never forget, was headed by Sam O. Wells, playground head, and five of his aides.

Wells, aka Henry Hudson of bygone days, is no novice at these journeys, having performed canoe treks on Susquehanna River three times prior to the not-too-long ago Delaware River jaunt.

The group, which numbered 19, started at Port Jervis. They stroked to Russ Eschbach's estate where they suppered, bedded down for the night, and breakfasted the next morning.

The final phase was Eschbach's to Hialeah. Then the group motored home none the worse for a wonderful two-day outing.

It was a combination of efforts which made possible the project Wells hopes will become an annual affair. The canoes were provided by Weykoff's, Henry Tucker, Elwood Hintze, Warren Mikels, Monroe County YMCA, Bert George and Bernie Rosso.

The camp truck, Sears contribution to the stint, was driven by the manager of the store himself, Jess Pierson.

Besides Wells, capable counselors were on hand throughout the over-night program. They were Hank Stetler, George Metropolis, Dr. Sherwood L. Samet, Dick Everett, and Bob Wert.

The river blazers were Dave Pierson, Steve Mikels, John Shanley, Ned and Dan Kahn, Ted Samet, John DeVivo, Harry Haney, John Chanace, John Schnaitman, Fred Stetler, and John Klintz.

While the water travel of the boys and their leaders will not go down in history as an earth-shattering event, it will serve as a memorable occasion for all of the participants.

Also it is a pretty sure wager that the "cruise down the river" will be a regular part of the playground's schedule in years to come.

A few years ago it was the bird with the swimming pool who was the popular guy in the neighborhood, now it is the citizens with a fall-out shelter.

Personnel director: What experience have you had? Pretty job candidate: All I had to do was to look like a girl, think like a man, act like a lady and work like a dog.

On Limited Warfare Don't worry, honey chile. Don't worry, no more. It's just a little old atom bomb in a little old limited war. It's just a bit of a warhead, chile. On a little old tactical shell.

Reports From Congress

'Fat Cats' Gave Less Than 10%

By Congressional Quarterly Washington — Contrary to popular belief, contributions from the proverbial "fat cats" account for a relatively small percentage of campaign funds donated to U.S. political parties.

A Congressional Quarterly study shows that 334 persons each were reported to have given $5,000 or more to political committees during 1960. Their contributions provided the parties with $2.7 million in funds — less than 10 percent of the total $28.7 million contributions reported for 1960 to the Clerk of the House of Representatives.

Another 4,849 persons made total contributions ranging from $500 to $5,000 — accounting for another 17.9 percent of the year's total donations. But the lion's share — $20.9 million or 72.7 percent of the year's contributions — came from hundreds of thousands of men and women who gave any sum between $1 and $500 during the year.

Big Gift Breakdown

Among the big gifts, those in the "5,000 and up" category, $1.0 million went to the Democrats and $1.6 million to the Republicans. While the Republicans continued, as in past years, to outstrip the Democrats in big gifts, the Democratic share of the "5,000 and up" group rose from 22.6 percent in 1956 to 37.3 percent in 1960.

Among the individual large contributors numerous changes showed up through a comparison of the 1956 and 1960 lists. Only 92 of the 334 contributors of $5,000 or more in 1960 appear on the comparable list for 1956.

Three of the 92 donors appearing on both lists switched their support from the Republicans in 1956 to the Democrats in 1960. The reports show that O. Ray Chalk, head of the Washington, D.C. transit system and Trans-Caribbean Airlines, gave $5,000 to the Republicans in 1956 and $6,000 to the Democrats in 1960; Arthur K. Watson, President of International Business Machines' World Trade Corp., and his wife gave $6,000 to the Republicans in 1956 and $6,000 to the Democrats in 1960; Thomas J. Watson Jr., Chairman of the Board of International Business Machines, and his wife gave $10,000 to the Republicans in 1956 and $10,500 to the Democrats in 1960. The reports indicate no large contributor who switched from the Democrats in 1956 to the Republicans in 1960.

Largest Contributions

The three heaviest 1960 contributors did not appear on the $5,000 and over list in 1956. The largest contributor in 1960, Jack J. Dreyfus Jr., New York investment broker, and his wife gave $42,000 to the Republicans. In 1956, his name did not appear on any list of persons giving $500 or more.

The second largest 1960 donor, Bart Lytton, Los Angeles banker, and his wife gave $23,500 to the Democrats. In 1956 they were reported as having given $2,000 to the Democrats. The third largest 1960 contributor, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Humes of New York City, reportedly gave $28,400 to the Republicans last year, but only $500 to the GOP in 1956.

Conversely, some of the largest 1956 contributors gave much less in 1960. Charles S. Payson, director of Arco Steel Corp. and chairman of the Vitro Corp., and his wife were reported to have given the Republicans $71,850 in 1956 but only $20,000 in 1960. Reports show Landell Christie, New York investor, gave the Democrats $70,564 in 1956 but lowered his giving to $6,000 in 1960.

Famous Contributors

Included among the $5,000 and over contributors were a number of well-known personages. President Kennedy's Secretary of the Treasury, C. Douglas Dillon, and his wife contributed $26,550 — all to the Republicans.

David Dubinsky, President of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, gave $5,000 to the Democrats.

Henry R. Luce, head of Time, Inc., and his wife Clare Boothe Luce, author, former U.S. Representative (R-Conn., 1943-47) and Ambassador to Italy, gave $15,300 to the Republicans.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller (R-N.Y.) and his wife gave $17,000 to the Republicans.

Actor Randolph Scott gave $5,000 to the Republicans.

DeWitt Wallace, publisher of the Red Cross Digest, and his wife contributed $11,500 to the Republicans and $8,000 to the Americans for Constitutional Action, a conservative political organization.

Inside You And Yours

Outside May Aid Circulation

By Burton H. Fern, M. D.

Dear Doctor: My husband works outside in his shirt-sleeves. But inside he wears a snowsuit, turns the heat up and still feels cold.

Could low blood pressure explain this?

Mrs. J. B.

Dear Mrs. B.: Possibly. Outside work may whip up his poor circulation until he comes in and sits down. As blood flow slows, he feels like an ice cube.

Perhaps he has a sluggish thyroid or wilted thermostat at the base of the brain. Maybe the trouble's psychological — in his mind instead of his brain!

Too Much Electricity

Dear Doctor: Sweaters, nylon slacks and slippers cling to my dry skin. I have to peel them off. If I let go, the cloth bounces back.

Why do I have so much electricity?

Mrs. E. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: You don't! The fabric manufactures electricity by rubbing against your dry skin. Oily skin isn't as vulnerable to this trouble.

Perhaps a vanishing cream can insulate you from this electrical problem.

Baby's Eczema

Dear Doctor: Every square inch of my baby is covered with eczema. How can the doctor test his skin for allergy?

Mrs. D. J.

Dear Mrs. J.: Indirectly.

He takes a little of baby's blood and separates off the serum to inject into a non-allergic volunteer.

The skin around the injection turns into baby-sensitive skin. Like a magic mirror, it reflects all baby's allergies!

It's Plastic Surgery

Dear Doctor: My doctor tells me that I can't have babies because my tubes are scarred from an old infection. Can plastic tubes help me?

Mrs. J. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: A tubal plastic (operation) may, but not plastic tubes. Our obstetrical friends don't know of any.

The operation which clears away old scar tissue to reopen the tubes is called a plastic procedure because it's internal plastic surgery.

Could Cataract Develop?

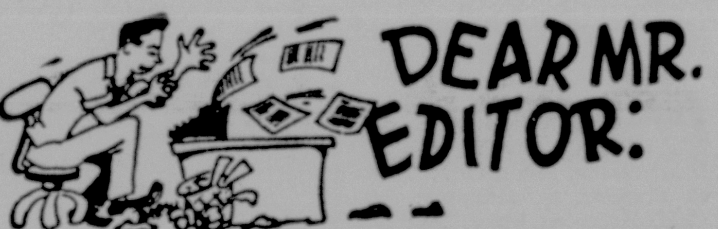

Dear Doctor: I like to sleep on my abdomen with my head resting on the forearm. Could this cause a cataract in my eye?

Mrs. O. R.

Dear Mrs. R.: Not unless you keep sticking your thumb in your eye also! Injury causes some cataracts, but most come with the years.

The way you look at night shouldn't affect the way you see!

Dr. Fern's mailbox is wide open for letters from readers. While he cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Fern in care of this newspaper.

Agrees With Myra

Dear Mr. Editor:

Having just read Harold Myra's letter to you I would like to second his commendation of the suggestive and provocative film advertisement seen in your newspaper.

It is interesting to note that your paper which has been crying for juvenile delinquency to be stopped permits such a film to be advertised in the name of entertainment.

Is this not contradictory? While advocating high moral standards of youths, you are suggesting adults, the example setters, go to see immoral behavior on a screen.

Someone's Pet Killed

Dear Mr. Editor:

Monday morning's headlines were all about the accidents in which people were killed or hurt on the highways. But there was one very sad accident on Phillips Street that didn't make the headlines — it was the death of a little dog — killers unknown.

The people responsible will not be brought before a judge and jury to be sentenced for reckless driving or crossing a double line, for speeding or leaving the scene of an accident. The only judge and jury they will face is their own conscience, if they have any.

It happened about 10:50 p.m. Saturday. My husband and I were sitting on our porch when we hear the loud thump and we immediately heard the crying of a dog. It kept getting louder so my husband and I took a flashlight and investigated.

The little dog was still lying on the road making the most pitiful crying sounds anybody ever heard. Other cars still came speeding down the hill as though they were on a race track somewhere, but no one would stop to remove the dog from the road.

The little dog's back was broken so we removed it from the road and laid it on the grass. All night long the pitiful cries of the little dog haunted me. Somebody called the police to come and put it out of its misery.

The police came and the officer in charge held the gun about two feet away from the dog and fired and missed the vital spot. The little dog lifted his head and wagged his tail.

Then someone in the background yelled, "For God's sake and all it'll do is blow us all to a little old limited hell."

Maryanne Mannes, noted writer for the Reporter magazine, has a wry poem re-printed in the current issue of Holiday:

kill it." The next bullet ended its life.

Some people will say, "Oh well, it was only a dog," but it was someone's pet that they couldn't find it. But some maniac in a speeding car found it first.

Phillips Street is posted at 35 miles per hour. I believe I would be safe in saying not one out of ten cars adhere to the speed limit.

Why can't some of these people be caught and punished? Not with just a warning but a fine stiff enough to make it hurt.

What is the good of the state putting up speed limit signs if nobody ever obeys them?

Ephraim Kishon, who writes a popular daily column for a Tel Aviv newspaper, describes Israel as "sprawled on the shore of the Mediterranean in such a way that half an hour's drive from any point in the country will take you either to the seashore or into captivity at the hands of the Arab Legion."

Once Kishon complained in court about being smacked by a taxi-cab, but the magistrate quickly put him in his place. "See how Israel has progressed," boasted His Honor. "When the pioneers first came here, some of them had to wait eighteen or twenty years before there were any taxi-cabs to knock them down!"

"My mother," boasted a little girl in a Beverly Hills school, "makes up jokes." "Well, well," nodded the teacher, impressed. "One of those highly paid comedy writers, eh?"

"No, no," contradicted the little girl. "She works in a beauty salon."

A Tulsa family man, delirious at the imminent arrival of his first baby, set a new record between his bungalow and the General Hospital. He made the five mile trip through heavy traffic in eight minutes flat.

Arrived at the hospital, he discovered, however, that in his excitement, he had made one slight mistake. He had forgotten to bring along his expectant wife.

Pvt. Koerner In Artillery

ARMY PVT. Arthur R. Koerner, 17, son of Mrs. Lillian M. Koerner, Route 5, Stroudsburg, was assigned to the 28th Artillery Group at Selfridge Air Force Base, Mich.

Koerner, a member of the group's Headquarters Battery, entered the Army in May of this year and received basic training at Fort Benning, Ga.

He was employed by the Sherwin Manufacturing Corporation before entering the Army.

Curtiss-Wright To Sell Plants

NEW YORK (AP)—The Curtiss-Wright Corp. is planning to sell its plants in Utica, Mich., and South Bend, Ind. A spokesman said the action is part of a plan to dispose of surplus facilities. Each plant contains about 1 million square feet of working space.

Two Enlist In Army

SGT. Donald K. Smith, Stroudsburg's Army recruiter, announced yesterday that two young men from this area were recently enlisted in the Regular Army. One is a prior serviceman with three and one-half years army experience and the other is a recruit.

He is Paul G. Cramer, son of Mrs. Cecelia Schoeder of 119 Park Ave., Stroudsburg. Paul reenlisted for the telephone outside plant maintenance field.

The other enlistee is Robert G. Transue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Transue of Tannersville. Upon completion of training and a leave at home, Robert will receive training in the construction equipment operation field.

Sgt. Smith stated that with the military buildup and the increase in Army enlistees it is very important for young men who are planning on enlisting within the next few months to start their processing now so that a school or a field may be reserved for them.

For information visit the Stroudsburg post office or phone HA 1-4911.

Navy Nuclear Drills Offered

STEPHEN BUHAY, chief aviation machinist, Stroudsburg, Navy Recruiter, announced yesterday that, in line with the increases in the Navy's manpower, the opportunity for high school graduates to be trained in the nuclear field is at its highest.

CPO Buhay said that high school nuclear field seaman recruits will receive the finest training available in the operation and application of nuclear power plants used in naval vessels.

As more ships begin to use nuclear power for propulsion, the demand for highly skilled technicians will undoubtedly increase rapidly.

Chief Buhay advised any graduate wishing to put his high school education to work, to visit the U.S. Navy Recruiting Station, Post Office Building, Room No. 2, Easton, Pa. or call him at BL 3-0605.

Office hours in the Monroe County area are every Thursday from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the post office building, Stroudsburg.

A duplicate of the H. M. S. Bounty, built for a current movie, contains a nail from the original vessel.

Dittus Aboard USS Dewey

THOMAS E. Dittus, fireman, U.S. Navy is serving aboard the guided missile destroyer leader USS Dewey, operating as a unit of the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Dittus is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Dittus of 203 Washington St., East Stroudsburg. The USS Dewey, which has been conducting exercises with the Sixth Fleet since mid-July, has visited Naples and seven countries of northern Europe and Scandinavia.

Sgt. Lanahan Returns To Base

SGT. FRANK L. Lanahan and his family have returned to Alabama after visiting the Army serviceman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Lanahan, 478½ Chestnut St., East Stroudsburg.

Sgt. Lanahan is stationed at the Army Arsenal, Alabama. Visiting East Stroudsburg, with Sgt. Lanahan was his wife, Juanita, and children, Patricia, James and Raymond.

Investigate Complaint

Hats Headline New Fall Wardrobe For Club Season

Winter can wait but the Fall luncheons won't, so no matter how long Summer may linger, come September the club women of the Stroudsburgs will be shopping for new hats to wear to the October luncheons.

Fortunately this year they will have a wide range of styles and fabrics, of tilt and tempo. The four above illustrate some of the fashions offered by some of the leading designers for Fall and Winter, 1961.

Silver and gold, tri-dimensional embroidered lame is used, top left, by John Fredericks whipped into a high profile. The veil is bordered with ostrich de ore to form a feather boa which would transform the simplest dress into an occasion.

Black leather is used by Lilly Dache, upper right, to mold a rounded mushroom with a contour crown and curving air-filled brim. Leather also shapes the smart bow that sits front and center. Patents, reptile and other leathers are used in many collections.

S. S. Kresge, 94, Patriarch Of Reunion

Gilbert — Sebastian S. Kresge, Mountainhome, honorary president of the Kresge Family Reunion, was also the oldest person among the 211 registered at the 35th reunion of the family held at the West End Fairgrounds. S. S. Kresge, 94, is the founder of the national chain of stores which bears his name.

Willard Kresge, Gilbert, president, presided at the meeting which opened with the invocation by Rev. Mark B. Michael of the Pleasant Valley United Church of Christ. Rev. Paul P. Haas, pastor of St. John's United Church of Christ, Slatington, gave the address.

Clarence Hawk read the names of the 29 members of the family who had died during the year. The present officers were re-elected to serve for another term with the 1962 reunion to be held at the same place.

In addition to the prize to S. S. Kresge, there was a prize for the youngest child, ten-week-old Keith Willard Kresge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard K. Kresge of Gilbert. The longest married couple were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Kunkle of Nazareth who had been married 63 years. The most recently married were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Serfass, Reading, four months. Mrs. Nettie Kresge and her six children, Easton, were the largest family represented.

Mrs. Roy Greenamoyer, Allentown was re-elected secretary; and William Kresge, Brodheadsville was elected treasurer.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

It would have been difficult to separate the winners from the losers to any one looking at the Glen Brook Women Golfers having their punch party on the lawn yesterday afternoon. Everybody was so happy over the change in the weather, so relaxed after their big effort, and so pleased with the spread that they all looked as if they'd just swallowed the canary.

They didn't look quite so chipper at tee-off time. It's a funny thing: no matter how lightly they may take winning or losing, no matter how well they know their opponents or how many times they've played together this summer, just say "tournament" to them and they freeze.

Movies of the first four holes would have made a wonderful counterpoise for All-star golf. They dubbed, whiffed, overshot and then froze on the putter. Well, some did. Helen Haynes had her best round of the summer, breaking 100.

Peg Shull, association president, is out of the tournament entirely with a wrenched knee but that didn't keep her from serving as hostess de luxe and waiting on the weary golfers. It was a peaceful scene—

Up to the point when the glider almost landed in the swimming pool. Electrified, everybody watched its silent progress down over the pool and then up over the

The Wyckoff Shopper

Wyckoff
"The Friendly Store"

Good morning! When I began typing the date at the head of today's copy, I almost wrote "July," for it's difficult to realize that a month has dropped out of my life since I wrote my last Wyckoff Shopper column. It was, as you can imagine, an eventful month, spent partly at Doctors Hospital in Philadelphia, and then in my own backyard where the sun baked me to a reddish brown. It's good to be back at the store, and I am grateful to all of you who wrote or sent cards saying you missed me. So much mail arrived at the hospital, I earned the nickname "Mrs. Arthur Godfrey," a joke that dated back a number of years to a time Arthur Godfrey and I were hospitalized at about the same time, and the nurses vowed I received as much mail as the newspapers said he did. It's hard to get back in the swing of things, but there's much reason to be happy... after tests and x-rays galore, surgery and more tests, I have the finest assurance in the world. "You're wonderful now," my surgeon tells me. "The best 46 year old insurance risk I've ever seen." What more could anyone ask? Nothing... and I'm doing just that!

Before doing anything else, I must express my thanks to Shorty Widmer and Pete Wyckoff for taking over the daily Wyckoff Shopper radio program so capably with an assist each Monday from Joe Whelan, WVPO's program director. Joe did an excellent job of interviewing the young actors and actresses from the Gap Summer Theatre at Wind Gap. Incidentally, they are staging some very fine shows and their acting is splendid. This week's production is a comedy, "Make A Million," and I suggest you see it if possible. You'll be delighted with both play and cast, as well as the reasonable prices... One thing I regret is being away from the store when the tea was given for Bobby Westbrook in our Tea Room. One of my delights during my first few days at home was reading Bobby's book, "Italian Summer," which we sell in our book department, and which is an attractively bound collection of her entertaining travel columns from the Daily Record. Bobby has the gift of seeing details that might evade less careful observers, and tying them together in a package sparked by wit. You'll love her book if you enjoy her daily columns, and everyone does, I'm sure.

One thing that impresses me whenever I return to Wyckoff's after a few days or weeks away: nothing ever stands still. There has been an amazing turnover of stock, for one thing, and many comings and goings. For instance, "Mama and Papa" Wyckoff are leaving today, aboard the Queen Elizabeth, for a few days in London and a longer visit with their granddaughter, Gretchen, who is spending a year in Holland. Bill Wyckoff's other daughter, Sarah, is accompanying them to see her sister—and word is that the senior Wyckoffs will also be celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. No, nothing ever stands still at Wyckoff's—"Papa" least of all!

As for the new stock, it follows all the trends I've been reading about in the city newspapers. Knits, I've been hearing, carry a tremendous wallop fashionwise. And we have 'em! In our infants department, for instance, there are sleepers of a stretch knit by Sternberg for both boys and girls in sizes M, L, and Toddlers' 1, 2, 3, priced at 3.98. These are machine washable and dryable, and come in prints combining cocoa and yellow, yellow and blue, and blue and pink. Knits too are available in sweater, legging and mitten sets by Blue Bird. Infants' sizes are 6.98, Toddlers' sizes are 9.98. Styles are for both boys and girls, in traditional blue and pink... And while we're talking about attire for youngsters, let's not shilly around—let's CHALLIS. Because that's the fabric of the new gown and peignoir sets, pink or blue rosebud print, in sizes 3 to 14. Gowns are waltz length and ruffle trimmed, as are the peignoirs. The entire set is 5.00—a really thrifty price. But more tomorrow!—why tell all I know in one day?

'O, Mistress Mine' Termed Uproarious

By GLORIA S. RANDOLPH

POCONO MOUNTAINHOME — Termed "Rattigan's tremendously amusing comedy 'O, Mistress Mine'" is being presented by the Pocono Playhouse. It is a completely light-hearted entertainment and a perfect example of how obviously risqué subject matter can be treated with finesse. With astonishing honesty cloaked in drawing room manners the play is up-roaring but never indecent.

Under Harold Kennedy's superior direction the present cast gives an excellent performance. The three principals are perfectly coordinated and the swiftly moving dialogue and action never lags. This well-staged production is enhanced by Paul Bertelsen's settings which are marvelously detailed and the lighting by Don Sussman is exceptionally well handled.

Graceful And Charming

Jane Wyatt is as graceful as she is gracious and charming as the lovely young widow "Olivia Brown." The role of "Olivia" requires an actress who must be mature enough to have a son nearly eighteen, but at the same time her son's pointed remarks about her age must seem ludicrous. Miss Wyatt is sophisticated without being brittle, she is poised and naturally attractive in beautiful clothes. Without resorting to coyness she never, never approaches a "middle-aged" characterization.

Tom Helmore is suave and elegant as "Sir John Fletcher," a cabinet minister in wartime England. The role of "Sir John" requires comedic timing but no buffoonery. Helmore's fine capabilities as an actor are evident in his mannered portrayal.

Gray Marvelous

Billy Gray is marvelous as "Michael Brown," "Olivia's" son. "Michael's" left-wing opinions of wartime youth are not as funny now as they were in 1945, but the angry young teenager will always be with us. No matter what the political differences are between gauche youth and what he terms "reactionary" they can always be made to lead to an amusing situation. In a role which calls for posing and posturing beyond belief, Gray never over-acts; he remains thoroughly believable and deserves the highest praise for his performance.

In small roles Mary Cooper, Helen Noyes and Joy Nicholson are well cast and very effective. The play is fine, tasteful summer theatre fare when it is as well done as it is in this production.

Never Reminded

Ordinarily a review of a play should not concern itself with past performances by the actors in other plays. It is impossible this week for me not to point out one striking fact, Jane Wyatt and Billy Gray are beloved by the American public for their television characterizations, the "Andersons" of "Father Knows Best." I have been a devoted viewer of this series, one of TV's most wholesome and genuinely good long-running shows. The remarkable thing about this week's performances by Miss Wyatt and Billy Gray is that they are such good actors that I never was reminded, even for a second, that they had ever portrayed "Margaret" and "Bud Anderson."

'Invitation To A March' Next Play At Playhouse

THE COMEDY "Invitation to a March" will be the next attraction at Pocono Playhouse, Mountainhome, beginning Monday, Aug. 28.

Celeste Holm, who created the lead role in the Broadway production of the play, makes her third visit to Pocono Playhouse as the star. Known as one of the top personalities of the theatre, Miss Holm has continued merrily in a long succession of plays and musicals on Broadway that have included "Oklahoma," "Bloomer Girl," a two-year run in "Affairs of State," "The King and I" and other successes.

She has also starred in many distinguished films, winning the Oscar for her great performance in "Gentleman's Agreement." Her latest motion pictures are "The Tender Trap," and "High Society," both made with Frank Sinatra.

"Invitation to a March" is a play that deals with one of the most compelling problems of our time without ever losing its abundant sense of humor. It is perceptive and witty, deft and hilarious as it spins a tale of a modern Sleeping Beauty whose contenders for her hand are a stuffy young man and an unconventional prince charming.

The contenders for her soul are, on the one side, two predatory females — her mother and the dull suitor's mother — and on the other a generous free — spirited woman, the prince charming's mother. All these stirred together with quips and observations as sharp as arrows promises a show long to be remembered.

New Marshal Sworn In

MINERSVILLE, Pa. (AP)—James V. Ryan of Heckersville has been sworn in as U.S. marshal for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania before 5,000 friends at Cass Township High School Stadium.

Ryan had asked that the ceremony be held in the stadium so that guests could be accommodated. He said the usual swearing in at a federal courthouse would prevent many from attending.

Ryan's headquarters will be in Philadelphia. President Judge James J. Curran of Schuylkill County Court administered the oath to Ryan.

Speakers at the ceremony included Sen. Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.), who said the U.S. is willing to negotiate the Berlin question, but is willing to fight to protect the freedom of West Berlin.

Failures Rise During August

NEW YORK (AP) — Dun & Bradstreet reported commercial and industrial failures edged up to 333 in the week ended Aug. 17, a rise from 343 in the preceding week.

Casualties in the comparable period last year were 279 and 263 of the similar 1959 period. The manufacturing category and wholesaling accounted for the steepest rises.

Auto Racing Movie At Skyline

A THRILL-PACKED and emotionally powerful drama of the men who engage in one of the most dangerous occupations in the world—auto racing—and the wives, sweethearts and mothers who wait at home, is unfolded in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "The Green Helmet."

The movie opens at the Skyline Drive-In Theatre, East Stroudsburg, tonight.

Based on the novel by Jon Cleary, who also wrote the screen play, the picture builds up its action from its opening scene of France's gruelling 14-hour Le Mans race, in which British champion racing driver Greg Rafferty (Bill Travers) goes into a wild skid and crashes, and builds up mounting suspense and excitement as it follows the career of a champ who hides his inner fears.

The lives of six people are entwined with that of Rafferty — his mother (Ursula Jeans) who lost her husband in a racing crash; his younger brother (Sean Kelly), also badly bitten by the racing bug; an American millionaire motor tire tycoon (Ed Begley), who hires Rafferty to drive in races with his tires; the latter's daughter, Diane (Nancy Walters), who falls in love with Rafferty and has to find out the hard way that a racing car can be more of a rival than another woman; Richie (Sidney James), Rafferty's mechanic; and, finally, Richie's wife (Megs Jenkins), who puts her husband's happiness before her own.

Dredging Firm Gets Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—The Standard Dredging Corp. reported receipt of a new $500,000 contract for rental of a dredge to government engineers in the Memphis, Tenn. district and start of work on a previously announced $1,250,000 award covering a drainage project in the Persian Gulf.

Yellow Jackets Place 2nd

BANGOR — The Yellow Jackets drum and bugle corps of E. H. Evans Post, American Legion, Bangor, won second place in Inter-State Circuit competition at Doylestown.

Winner of the contest sponsored by Lambertville, N. J. Legion Post corps, was the Jersey Devils, Bordentown.

Third place went to the Hershey Chocolateaters.

United States Has Culture

ASHEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—Mrs. C. Arthur Bullock of Canton, Pa., president of the National Federation of Music Clubs, told the organization's annual meeting here over the weekend that "the concept that the United States is a country without culture is completely outmoded. . . More than half of all the symphony orchestras in the world are in the United States."

Bill Travers (left) debates whether or not to let his younger brother, Sean Kelly, take over as his navigator, as mechanics Roland Curran and Peter Collingwood await the verdict. The scene is from "The Green Helmet," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's excitement-packed drama of auto racing. Now showing at Skyline Drive-In, E. Stroudsburg. —(Adv.)

The House Of The Week It Has The Grace Of Simplicity

By JULES LOH

ORDER is a lovely thing, a poet once said, and in today's rush to find something new, something different in home design, it is refreshing to discover a house whose genuine elegance is the result of plain simplicity.

"There is nothing tricky about this house," said architect Fenick A. Vogel, who designed it. "Just a straight-forward plan that should appeal to home buyers who are thinking about tomorrow as well as today."

House of the Week B-80 does, simply and economically, solve the age-old design problem of providing for the usually obscure needs of the future.

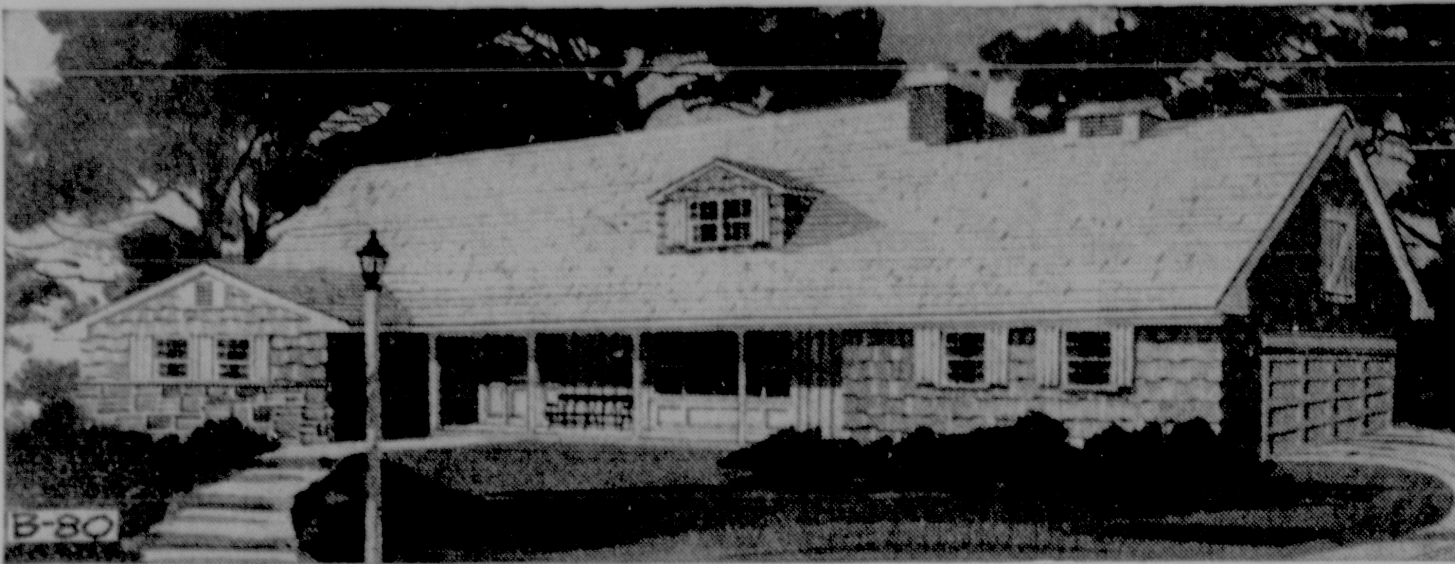

This is one of its additional advantages, however. Its main appeal lies in its honest and logical answer to the needs of the present—up to the minute design both inside and out, uncluttered by gimmicks or frills that often add much to the cost with little corresponding increase in livability.

With its upstairs unfinished, B-80 is a two-bedroom, one and one-half bath home with 1,380 square feet of living area in dimensions of 48 feet by 34 feet not counting the double garage which adds 24 feet four inches to the width.

Finishing the upstairs, which could be done a portion at a time as the extra space is needed, would add 1,034 square feet to the total. It contains a second full bathroom, plus two extra-large bedrooms—one 20 feet by 17 feet, the other 19 feet by 17 feet.

The formal living room, a comfortable 21 feet by 13 feet four inches, is highlighted not only by a large fireplace but also by a bay window which provides indoor enjoyment of the delightful front porch, or loggia, which plainly is one of the most attractive exterior features of the house.

The exterior walls are shingle, with accents of stone and board and batten. The dormer and cu-

CHARMINGLY SIMPLE—A covered front gallery, or loggia, adds a homey touch to this attractive 1½ story home whose hallmark is simplicity. With the second story finished, the house contains four bedrooms and 2½ baths. The architect is Fenick A. Vogel, a designer who scorns frills and gimmicks.

pola pleasantly complement the loggia.

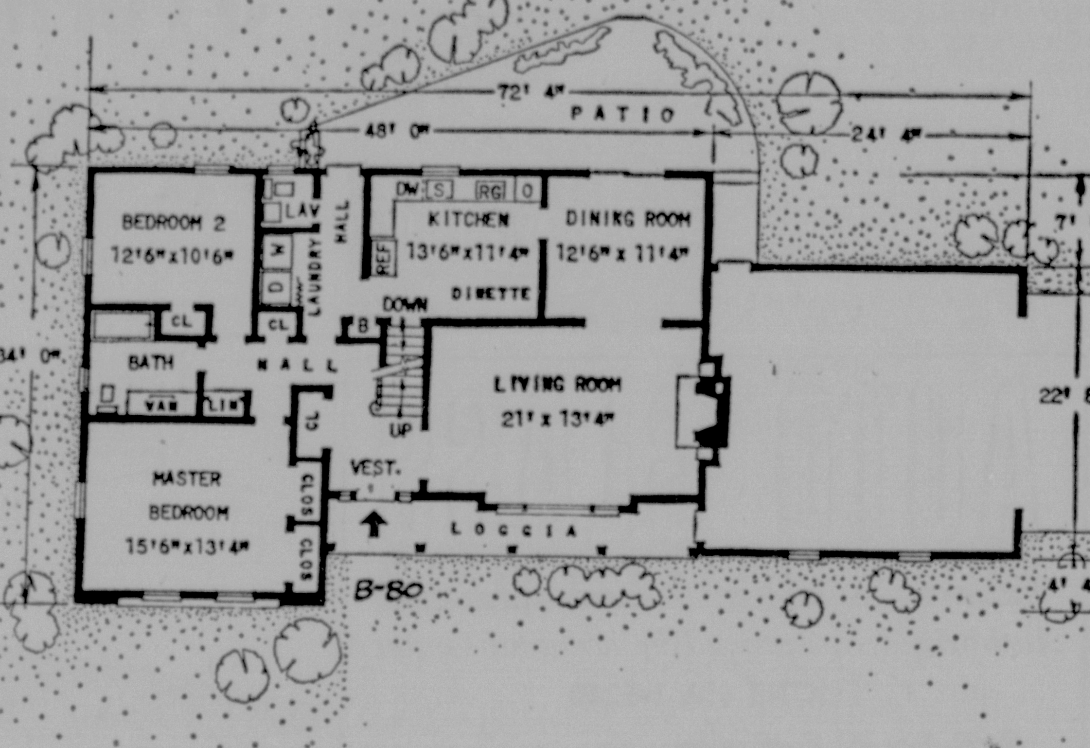

A word should be said about the excellent storage facilities in B-80. Aside from the spacious bedroom closets (one a walk-in), note the handy location of the broom closet and both linen closets, plus the coat closet in the front vestibule and the storage closet adjoining the laundry. The 24 feet four inches by 22 feet eight inches garage contains extra space in both directions, and the full basement, of course, provides almost unlimited storage space.

Vogel also suggests adding another lavatory in the basement if the owner should decide to convert a portion of it into a reception room.

The second floor addition (which could, of course, be completed from the start) is the bargain kind, its ceiling and walls a part of the basic house structure.

Additional Details
Center hall planning in two directions results in a traffic pattern in this house which, again, is simple and direct.

The service hall at the rear leads into the bedroom hall, opening up all areas of the house from that direction; and the main entrance vestibule accomplishes the same result from the front of the house without wasting additional hall space.

FLOOR PLANS—Center hall planning in both the front and rear is the key to excellent traffic circulation in this house. Note also how the first floor sleeping area is set well apart from the entertaining area. Second floor can be finished a portion at a time as the extra space is needed.

Entering the house from the outside likewise has been well planned for convenience—in all kinds of weather.

Doors at both corners of the garage enable you to drive in and enter the house through the front door (under the covered loggia porch) or the rear, either through the service entrance or the sliding glass patio doors in the dining room.

By widening the rear hall to accommodate lavatory and laundry, architect Vogel has centered all the housekeeping facilities neatly at the service end of the house. The laundry, incidentally, is located behind folding doors.

The kitchen features the L-shaped plan for its work area, long recognized as a step-saving design, and is large enough to accommodate a dinette which doesn't interfere with traffic through the room.

Each of the four bedrooms has two exposures, and all are convenient to full sized bathrooms upstairs and down. The first floor bedrooms also are located well away from the possibly noisy entertaining areas.

HOW MUCH PAINT?

To find out how much paint you need for the outside of your house, use this method. Multiply the distance around the foundation by the height of the house, adding 2 feet if the house has a peaked roof. This gives you the approximate number of square feet to be covered. Divide this total by 500, the average coverage of a gallon of quality house paint. The result will be the approximate number of gallons needed for one coat.

FOR LADDERS
Opaque paint used on ladders may hide cracks in rungs or rails that could lead to nasty accidents if the defective part went unnoticed. On the other hand, protect the wood with applications of spar varnish, penetrating sealer or linseed oil.

MIXING PAINT
Here's the way to mix paint for best results. Pour most of the liquid from the can into another container. Stir what's left until it is all of the same smooth consistency with no lumps. Pour back about a third of the liquid and stir again until it is all absorbed. Continue pouring and stirring until the original container is full. Lastly, "box" the paint by pouring it from one container to the other until it is uniform.

About 6,000 people die in home fires—each year in the United States. This is more than half of the nation's total casualties for all fires.

The Daily Investor

Comments Are Unusual

By William A. Doyle

Q. What is your opinion of a company that cries poor mouth. I have owned stock in this company for a number of years. The company is earning money, even though its earnings are down from previous years. Its sales have increased steadily. Until about two years ago, the officials of this company would speak so proudly of the company and its accomplishments that I have ever seen the company's name in print. The few comments the company's officials do make to the press are never encouraging. They almost seem to be "talking the company down" and saying "wait until next year." Isn't this unusual?

A. It certainly is these days—when so many companies put much time, effort and money (stockholders' money) into high-pressure "public relations." Don't misunderstand me. A certain amount of public relations work is a necessary ingredient in the success of any corporation. But this thing can go just so far. Some so-called "public relations consultants" operate on the theory that it's their job to promote a company and its stock by fair means or foul.

No Cheap Homers For Ruth

BABE RUTH got some cheap homeruns in 1927 when he hit 60 circuit blows, it is said.

For in 1927, the rules credited a homerun for every ball that was bounced into the stands. Under present rules, that type of a hit would be a ground rule double, so some people theorize, Ruth got some homers that would have only been doubles for today's sluggers.

However, Hal Lebowitz, writing in a recent edition of the Sporting News, a weekly sports paper, says that Ruth did not hit any ground rule double homers. Lebowitz spent considerable time checking old newspapers and record books to prove his point.

And the Cleveland newspaper man also came up with a point that could have hurt Ruth's home production. In 1927 the rules said that a home run was judged fair or foul by the position of the ball when it disappeared from the umpire's sight.

That meant that a ball hit out of the playing field in fair territory would be called a foul if it curved into foul territory before it disappeared from view.

Now Judged On Different Basis

The present rules judged a fair ball on its position when it leaves the playing area.

Many of Ruth's homers were "hookers" recalls Lebowitz, so it is entirely possible that the ball could have passed over the right field fence at Yankee Stadium in fair territory and then hooked foul past the foul pole.

Cuttle is 63 years old and except on a rare occasion when a Manor guest asks him to ride, Cuttle will not use a cart. And in the era of flashy golf shirts, Cuttle plays his game attired in a white shirt and tie.

Smith Gets 150-Yard Eagle

Dick Smith, Indian Mountain golf pro, canned an eagle on the first hole of his Kresgeville layout last week.

Smith knocked a 150-yard eight iron shot into the cup on his second shot.

The U. S. Lawn Bowling Championships will take place at Buck Hill September 6-11. It will be the third straight year for the event at Buck Hill.

The event opens with a parade of contestants and officials to the bowling green, preceded by bagpipers.

Detroit Stars Stop KC Monarchs At Banger

THE Detroit Stars kept their winning ways intact on the Banger diamond by defeating the Kansas City Monarchs 5-4 in ten innings under the park arcs Saturday night.

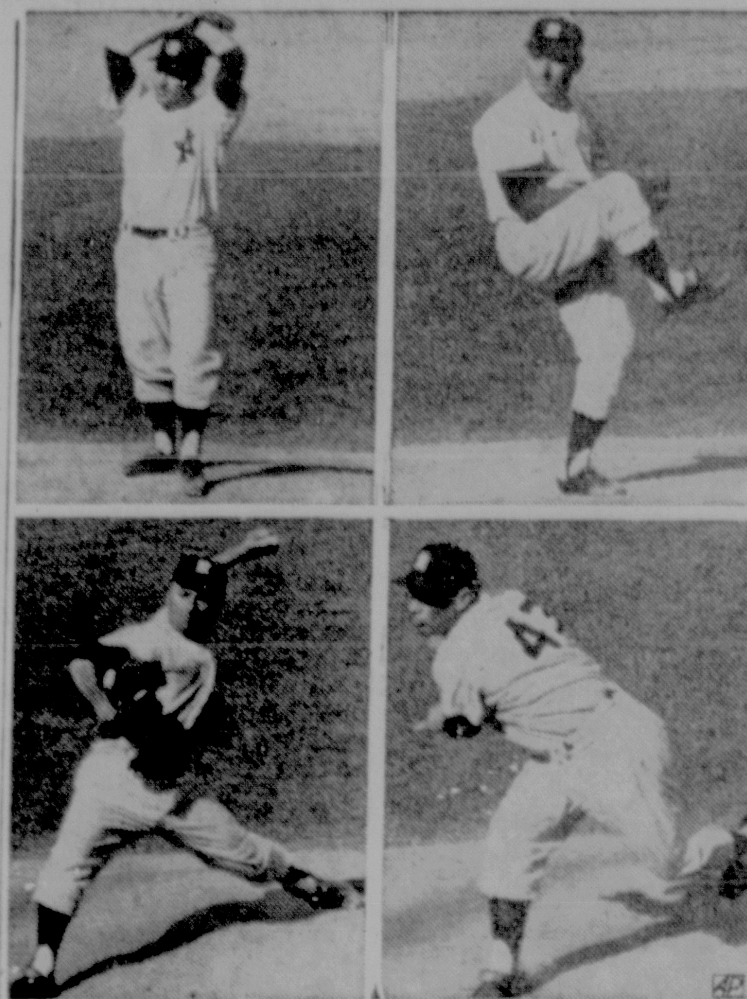

Yet to lose in appearances on this field, the Stars squeezed across the telling tally in the top of the tenth after loading the bases with one out. Bob Paul's bunt down the first base line did the trick.

Kansas City prevented the situation from expanding with a double play, one of a half-dozen executed during the superbly waged contest, and then attempted to retrieve the run in the bottom of the frame.

Larry LaGrande led off with a deep blast against the right-field fence but he was overhauled sliding into third. After that Bennie Burch, Stars' slogger, had clear sailing.

Detroit led 3-2 at the end of the opening round. Willie

Lane Gets Boot From KC Brass

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane Tuesday was fired as general manager of the Kansas City Athletics by owner Charles O. Finley.

Lane spread rumors all over the United States and wherever I went and read a newspaper I could see nothing but poison and dirt that he had left behind," said Finley.

"He created great dissension between the two managers I have had — Joe Gordon and Hank Bauer. I had to let Gordon go on the insistence of Lane."

In Kansas City, Lane was not immediately available for comment. Finley, wealthy Chicago insurance broker who bought the Kansas City club a year ago for about $5 million, said the new general manager will be Pat Friday. He is a 37-year-old member of Finley's insurance organization who was promoted to vice president of the A's when Finley took over.

Finley said Lane will be paid off for the final three years of his contract at $50,000 annually. Finley denied that he had any ideas of moving the Kansas City franchise to Dallas at the present time, saying that he "felt confident" that this year's attendance would match that of last year—$73,074 paid.

In a news conference, Finley had these other observations to make: "In my book a general manager is not only a man who can make a trade over the phone — any damned fool can do that — but he must be able to oversee everything. Lane did not do this and these other responsibilities fell with Friday and myself."

"I was forced to let Gordon go because it was impossible for him and Lane to work together (Lane last year got rid of Gordon at Cleveland in exchange for Manager Jimmie Dykes of Detroit in one of the most unusual switches in baseball history)."

"If I had known then what I do now, Gordon still would be my manager," Finley continued. "But I gave Lane the benefit of the doubt because I had hired him and I had not hired Gordon. Gordon had become field manager before I bought the club."

Lane was in his first season as general manager at Kansas City. Finley said, "This dissension on the club can be traced back to the time when Lane used me in getting a point — ver to Gordon on the field. Lane would rush on the field and issue instructions and say they came from me, which was totally untrue."

When Gordon left, Bauer, the former New York Yankee outfielder who had been with the A's as a player, was named to replace Gordon. "Since Bauer became our field boss, Lane on three occasions has come to me and said that Hank should go," Finley said.

San Francisco Tumbles Cincinnati

CINCINNATI (AP) — The sizzling San Francisco Giants massacred the first-place Cincinnati Reds 12-2 Tuesday night with a 20-hit attack featuring two homers by Willie McCovey and five hits by Willie Mays in the opener of a two-night doubleheader.

Mays hit a two-run homer in the first that got the Giants started against loser Bob Purkey.

Mexicans Romp Over US In Davis Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Mexican Davis Cuppers Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox opened the seeded play in the 81st USLTA National Doubles Tennis Championships Tuesday with a 6-3, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3 victory over King Lambert of Miami, Fla., and Ray Senkowski of Hamtramck, Mich.

Though the week-long tournament at Longwood Cricket Club began Sunday, rain washed out Monday's scheduled action and none of the top players were in competition the first day.

Osuna, 22, and Palafox, 20, upset doubles winners during last week-end's Davis Cup play against the United States, slowed down a bit in the third set but were clearly in command the rest of the way.

Bethlehem Heads Legion All-Stars

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The 1961 Pennsylvania American Legion All-Star Baseball Team announced Tuesday it is headed by Ambridge, the championship club and Bethlehem.

Ambridge placed five players on the team and Bethlehem three. George Bellis, the legion's activities director, announced the selections.

Each of the 11 players named to the all-star team will receive a medal.

The Ambridge players included catcher Larry Pannaia, pitcher Fred Klages, second baseman Ray Brooks, shortstop Hal Dickerson and centerfielder Harry Oswald.

Selected from Bethlehem were pitcher Norm Koch, third baseman Francis Yilinko and right-fielder Joe Ritsick.

Pitcher Wayne Jackson of Newtown, first baseman Paul Dennebaum of Scranton Tripp Park and left fielder Frank O'Donnell of Williamsburg make up the rest of the team.

Maris' Wife Has 3rd Child

The boy, the Maris' third, weighed 6 pounds 13 ounces. They also have a daughter.

Sanders And Palmer Have To Hurry

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — For Doug Sanders and Arnold Palmer, the $50,000 American Golf Classic starting here Thursday may be their last chance to overtake Gary Player as top money winner on the professional golf circuit this year.

The 72-hole invitational tournament, to be played on the 7,165-yard, par 70, Firestone Country Club course, marks the last major event on the 1961 professional golfing schedule.

The course, designed by architect Robert Trent Jones, will be a true test of golf. Jay Hebert, winner of the PGA tournament here last year, had a 72-hole total of 281, one over par. It was the only major tournament last year that was won at over-par figures.

The winner's share of the classic is $9,000. Player has official winnings this year of $55,001, while Palmer and Sanders have won $52,899 and $48,154, respectively.

Phil's Win 2nd In Row, 6-0
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Art Mahaffey, the Philadelphia Phillies' sophomore right-hander, snapped his personal 10-game losing streak by pitching a one-hitter against the Chicago Cubs Tuesday night for a 6-0 victory.

The 23-year-old hurler, who had won only one game in his last seven decisions, gave up only a ground ball single through the middle by Ron Santo with one out in the first inning.

Later, he walked Ed Bouchee in the third inning and picked him off second and walked Billy Williams to open the eighth. No other Cub reached first.

The Phils, who ended a 23-game losing streak on Sunday, won their second straight by pounding Dick Ellsworth and Don Elston for 11 hits, including a three-run homer by Don Demeter in the seventh inning.

Pre-Danny Kaye Tourney

Beselink Tours Tamiment In Record Practice Round

By Curt Prins
Daily Record Sports Editor

TAMIMENT—More than 300 golfers honored golf architect Robert Trent Jones here last night on the eve of the Third Annual Danny Kaye Golf Tournament.

Jones, who designed the 7100-yard Tamiment layout in 1945, accepted an engraved silver plaque from Tamiment honoring his mountain-top achievement.

Herb Graffis, editor of Golfing and Goldom, monthly golf magazine, was the featured speaker. Prior to his short address, Graffis read excerpts from hundreds of telegrams and letters from Jones's friends praising the soft-spoken architect, who has constructed some of the world's most grueling golf courses.

There were telegrams from news commentator Lowell Thomas, Joe Dey, executive director of the United States Golf Assn.; Frank Pace Jr., executive director of the International Golf Assn., and Robert Tyre, Jones, one of the world's greatest amateur players, who founded the Master's Golf Tournament at Augusta, Ga.

Many of the golf teams who round Tuesday. Pre-tourney favorite Al Beselink, Philmont Country Club, Philmont, Pa., whipped around the immaculately groomed course in 69 blows, an unofficial course record.

The official course record, set only a week ago, is 70. It was posted by Fox Hill's John Serafin in a Pocono Professional Golf Association Tournament.

Beselink declined to even consider his round as a course record.

"I didn't putt out on a couple short putts," said Beselink, "so you can't say that it was a course record." However, one of the players in Beselink's group said that the putts which Beselink picked up were less than a foot.

Beselink, who left the pro tour this year to take a club job, had nine hole scores of 35-34-69, for his three-under finish.

"I hit the ball straight and putted well," said the good-looking strong boy who won the rich Tournament of Champions in Las Vegas in 1952.

"I'll take that 69 and sit in the clubhouse tomorrow," he cracked.

Beselink wasn't the only player to shoot subpar golf in practice rounds Tuesday. Dick Mullin, a young pro from Beaver Creek Country Club in Hagerstown, Md., had 71.

Philadelphia's North Hills Country Club Stan Dudas, the defending pro titleist, missed Tuesday's practice round. Dudas and his North Hills team were expected to check in late Tuesday night.

Dudas won the event last year with a 36 hole score of 144. His 71 on the closing day was the course record until last week.

The Danny Kaye Cup is awarded to the team consisting of a pro and three amateurs with the lowest scratch score on a best ball basis Thursday.

The defending champion in that division is Green Valley Country Club of Lafayette Hills, Pa. The team consists of pro George Griffin Jr. and amateurs Herb Koff, Sam Robinson, and Steve Steifel.

Today the pros play their first round of the 36 hole tourney, and the amateurs take part in an 18-hole handicap event.

Besides Beselink, Dudas, and Mullin, there are a handful of pros who could cop all the bananas. The favored group includes Jimmy D'Angelo, Myrtle Beach, S. Carolina; Charley Lepre, Tavistock Country Club, Haddonfield, N.J.; Dick Hendrickson, Country Club of Scranton, who was runner-up in the recent Philly section PGA championship; ex-Yale footballer Billy Booe, Country Club of Northampton, Easton, Pa.; New York PGA champ Paul Kern, Windsor; Harry Obitz, Palm Aire Country Club, Pompano Beach, Fla.; Carl Watkins, White Face Inn, Lake Placid, N.Y.

The tournament winds up Thursday with the best ball foursome event for the Kaye trophy.

Bucs Finally Beat Braves With Pitching

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, who had lost seven straight games to the Milwaukee Braves, Tuesday night whipped the Braves 4-1 behind the five-hit pitching of southpaw Joe Gibbon and the timely relief twirling of Elroy Face.

After fanning the first two Braves in the eighth, Gibbon walked Frank Bolling and gave up a single to Eddie Mathews. Face then came in, got Hank Aaron on a fly to retire the side and set down the Braves in 1-2-3 order in the ninth.

Gibbon struck out eight and walked two as he picked up his ninth victory after losing four straight. He has lost eight for the season.

Milwaukee got its lone run off Gibbon in the sixth when Matthews singled with two outs, and Aaron followed with a triple.

Levittown Upset By California LL Squad

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — An extra-inning home run by Todd Lieber gave El Cajon, Calif., a 1-0 upset victory over defending champion Levittown, Pa., and a scrappy team of Japanese from Hilo, Hawaii, outslugged Montreal, Canada, 8-5 Tuesday in the opening games of the Little League World Series.

The two winners go into the semifinals where they will meet Thursday.

The other semifinal will be determined Wednesday when Terra Haute, Ind., plays El Campo, Tex., in the first game and Monterrey, Mexico, engages a team from Pirmasous U. S. Submarine Base in Germany.

A crowd of 5,500 at the Little League capital saw Lieber, a first baseman who doubles as a pitcher, break up the tense first game with a powerful wallop over the 200-foot left field fence.

Until that blow, tiny Sam Gumbert, who is 4-10 and weighs 90 pounds, had completely checked the El Cajon team, allowing them only one other hit—a single in the second inning. Gumbert entered the game in the second after Levittown's starting pitcher, Dennis Pesci, had been hit on his right throwing arm by a pitched ball.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 23, 1961

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Fine day for smart, keen management, skillful work in any worthy endeavor. Money rightly handled can make gains; your work or business can bring new benefits.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—Should be receptive period for original ideas, clever maneuvering of affairs. In your rush to try the novel, don't forget old, essential, practical needs. Tabu worry.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be concerned not only about your intimate business interests but about community and government affairs. Good day to show your unique methods, improve old ones. Tact!

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Meet competition, but don't look for it immediately. Rouse scandal, welcome a good word about anyone, we all can find more of worth in people and things when we look. Build faith.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Impulsive set of aspects, but don't you be bombastic. General tendency to eloquence. Fine, if some ideas are full knowledge of subjects are included. Watch diet.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—Be not too sure that what you have decided is the only thing or that that should be done. You are so often right it behooves you to give in occasionally merely to give another a change of view.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—The most difficult experience and actual suffering we endure if we endure these with hope, prayer, and maintain our own humor, the better people we are, the happier our lives.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio)—Straighten out loose ends, finish those incomplete matters, make sure you can rely on others to a better, happier day. Keep first things first. Really fine.

November 24 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—Quality supercedes quantity, and right outweighs might, no matter how preponderant might seems. Sample: "The Word is mightier than the sword." Make sound contacts.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Good time to hold that line against irritation, misjudgment, misunderstanding. Remember: fair configurations ask YOUR best in thinking, planning AND doing.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius)—Strong, favorable Uranus and other aspects urge you grasp worthwhile opportunity quickly and not waste any time with disasters, time-wasters, chronic critics.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces)—Benefic Neptune and several major aspects promote a good will, your talents, and a generous amount of patience. If you think the wait is too long for gains, seek the answer.

YOU BORN TODAY have a multitude of attitudes and gifts for a successful and happy lifetime. But it all will depend upon how you use them, and this goes for the later years when faster improvement and learning can be accomplished by those with will power, and how you recognize your own capabilities. No time like now for getting ahead! You are among the big-hearted and enthusiastic-about-life people, and once you stand firm for achievement, reach new heights, large organizations, charity, children's help, the better for your aid. Squelch smugness, especially when you are successful. Birthdate of: Gen. Louis XVI. France; Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, defender of Corregidor; Wm. E. Haley, poet, critic, editor; Gene Kelly, dancer, actor-producer.

Girl Thrown From Car Dies

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A 17-year-old Westmoreland County girl was thrown from a spinning auto and fatally injured Tuesday on the Penn-Lincoln Parkway near Bates Street in Pittsburgh.

Police identified the victim as Rozanne Simon of New Kensington. She was dead on arrival at Montefiore Hospital.

The Simon girl was a passenger in a car driven by Joyce Silverstein, 18, also of New Kensington, police said. They said the driver escaped injury.

Officers said the auto was headed east when it spun out of control on the wet pavement, crossed the medial strip, and threw the victim onto the westbound lane.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Successful Ex-Topkick

LONDON (AP)—A wartime sergeant who started from scratch and made more than a million pounds—$2,800,000—said today he has formed a club of successful ex-topkicks.

He is Walter Flack who got out of Britain's famous 8th Army at the end of World War II. With a small army gratuity, he entered the real estate business and cleaned up.

"This club is my answer to people who keep recalling that I was a sergeant—as if that meant I was some kind of bonehead who could only sign X with my signature," he said.

"I know of several company directors in this country prominent

Goya Thief Knew History

LONDON (AP)—The thief who took the Goya portrait of the Duke of Wellington must have had a sense of history.

Tuesday was the 50th anniversary of the most famous art theft of all—the taking of Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa from the Louvre in Paris.

That painting was stolen by an Italian named Peruggia, an art lover who died in 1947. The Mona Lisa was found in Florence in 1913 and handed back to the French ambassador in Rome.

lawyers and sporting celebrities who will be eligible to join. There are probably hundreds of others we don't know about."

Dear Abby

Friendly Inspection

Dear Abby: How do you go about telling an intelligent young woman—that, if she doesn't keep her house cleaner, she is going to lose her husband? I do not refer to the ordinary daily accumulation of dust, but I have seen a collection of odd shoes under the bed, and soiled laundry stuffed into every dresser drawer. Her pots and pans are stored (dirty) in her oven until she "gets around" to them.

Her husband holds a responsible position with a first-rate firm, but if it became known that he lives in a dirty home it would discredit him with his associates.

DEAR FRIEND

Dear Dear: If you are indeed a "dear friend"—tip her off. If you aren't that friendly, let it go at that. By the way, how did you happen to look under beds, in dressers and in the oven while visiting a friend?

Dear Abby: When a couple gets married, and they want to have a double-ring ceremony, is the girl supposed to buy her fiancé's wedding band? Or should he buy both hers and his?

WONDERING

Dear Wondering: The girl usually buys her fiancé's wedding band.

Dear Abby: Good for you! I was glad to see you stick up for younger baby-sitters. I have three children under ten and, when I need a baby-sitter for a few hours, I always ask a little girl in the neighborhood who is only 13. I find her far more reliable than the "sitters" between 15 and 18. She doesn't have boys on the brain yet. Sincerely,

MRS. J. K.

ITT Sells 40 More Units

NEW YORK (AP)—International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. said Friday it has sold 40 more units of airborne distance measuring equipment to American Airlines.

It said the sale, through its Federal Laboratories Division, brings to 100 the number of units ordered by American.

The equipment permits a pilot to read from a dial his exact mileage from a selected ground check-point. ITT said the equipment provides the pilot with precise information about position, arrival times and holding patterns.

Hodges Sees Stable Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges drew a rosy picture of growing prosperity marked by fatter personal incomes and less unemployment in the United States.

He said he looks for no tax increase, no inflation and not more than a slight increase in living costs in the foreseeable future.

Interviewed by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., for the senator's weekly television program, Hodges said the gross national product—the total value of goods and services produced into the national economy—has soared to new record heights and will go still higher.

FASTEST-GROWING U.S. INDUSTRY!

—That's organized research, and you have a stake in its future

What's new about today's research and development? It's this—the drive for discovery is now organized. Researchers work systematically in teams, each heading for assigned goals. Industry recognizes that new products and processes are the key to growth—of a company, an industry, the nation. For each invention leads on to many others. The more we learn, the faster we go ahead.

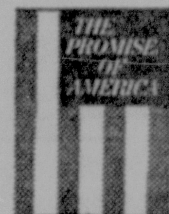

Funds spent on this mobilized knowledge are the most vigorous of all "seed money." That's why American research expenditures have more than doubled in the past six years—are expected to double again during the Sixties. From less than $100 million in 1928 to more than $22 billion by 1971!

Research pays off—in business competition and in better living for millions. Out of the laboratories that produced the atomic reactor, the earth satellites, antibiotics, television, synthetic rubber and modern detergents, still more wonders are coming soon. And new "think" factories are springing up everywhere.

Some of their inventions, like the transistor, will launch whole new industries. And as the pace of technical progress accelerates, thousands of new jobs will be created—better-paid jobs filled by better-educated workers.

We may have some ups and downs en route—we've often had them in the past. But the future is bright with promise—and it's a bigger, better future than any we have ever known.

GET READY FOR AN UPSWING!

MORE RESEARCH—We're now spending $12 billion a year—and that's due to double during the Sixties!

MORE INCOME—Today's average $6500 per family represents an all-time high!

MORE SAVINGS—Now at the highest level ever—$375 billion!

MORE JOBS—There are 15 million more jobs than in 1939—will be 22 million more by 1975!

MORE EDUCATION—By 1970 we'll have 20 million more high school graduates and 3 million more college graduates. They'll earn more, live better!

MORE LEISURE—40 million Americans get paid vacations, and there are 16 million people over 65, many of them with retirement income to spend!

MORE MARKETS—U.S. exports, plus output of U.S.-owned plants overseas, already account for over $50 billion in annual sales!

MORE NEEDS—Schools, hospitals, highways, homes—we need billions in improvements right now!
